

Chapter 2

Bibliography of Elise Boulding's Published and Selected Unpublished Writings

2.1 Overview

The most complete listing of Elise Boulding's published writings available at the time of her death in 2010 was a Vita dated November, 2001 which had been annotated in her handwriting to add about a half-dozen publications that had come out between 2000 and 2003. The Vita listed 23 books and edited volumes, and 253 chapters and articles for a total of 276 publications. For this volume a significant effort was made to compile as complete a list as possible of Elise Boulding's publications. As a result more than 90 publications have been added for a total of 373 publications. Additions to the publications listed in her 2001 Vita came from the following:

- A partial list of writings by Elise Boulding compiled by Mary Lee Morrison and published in the Journal of Peace Education 9(2):195–200, August 2012. Mary Lee Morrison kindly provided an electronic version of the bibliography, which was the starting point for the one presented here.
- Review of copies of Vitas dated 1965 and 1981 identified some publications that were not in the 2001 Vita. For example the 1981 Vita listed seventeen published reviews of books written by others that were not included in the 2001 Vita.
- Review of citations to her published work in the bibliography of writings about Elise Boulding listed in Sect. 3.2 identified additional publications.
- A listing of 50 publications from a search of the Library of Congress Online Catalogue identified some more publications, mostly introductions and forewords to books written by others.
- Review of several dozen boxes of Elise Boulding's publications at the Archives at the University of Colorado, Boulder, mainly to check accuracy of citations, also identified additional publications.

A Note on Format and Organization of the Bibliography

Elise Boulding's published writings are organized into two sections:

- 2.2 Books, monographs/pamphlets (>50 pages), and volumes that she edited or made significant contributions to.
- 2.3 Other publications, including articles, chapters, shorter pamphlets, prefaces, forewords, introductions and book reviews. This section also lists written contributions by Elise Boulding to edited volumes listed in Sect. 2.2.

Publications are listed in chronological order from oldest to most recent by year of publication. For a given year, publications solely authored Elise Boulding are listed alphabetically by title, followed by other publications in that year that she may have co-authored with others. When the same material has been reprinted in other publications, it is listed in the year it was first published and subsequent reprints are identified in that listing. When different versions of a written work (revised or expanded/abbreviated versions) have been published under the same title, they are listed separately in the years in which they were published, with cross-references noted for other versions.

2.4 Methodology for Selecting the Texts in This Series

This volume provides an introduction to the breadth of Elise Boulding's work, and the two subsequent volumes in this series offer more in depth coverage of the different areas of her contributions. The selection of texts that are included in these three volumes followed a two-step process. Potential inclusions were first identified using the following information:

- A partial list of Elise Boulding's publications compiled by Mary Lee Morrison and published in the 2012 Journal of Peace Education 9(2):185–200.
- Writings in the above list identified as seminal by Mary Lee Morrison in a personal communication.
- A 2001 bibliography annotated in Elise Boulding's handwriting which identified 21 chapters in books and 29 articles and pamphlets which presumably represent publications that she felt were most important.
- A bibliography compiling writings identified in the above bullets was sent to selected peace research scholars and activists with a request that they identify the publications that they consider most significant.
- Citations to her work in writings about Elise Boulding (see Sect. 3.2, this volume) were compiled.

An annotated bibliography was developed that identified who had cited which publications. This bibliography included more than 100 publications of which twenty were cited by two or more people. Several of her books were cited by a half dozen people.

The second step used the information collected in the first step to select publication for inclusion in the first three volumes of this series (the fourth volume PAHSEP 09, includes selections from Elise Boulding's unpublished journals). Three main factors determined the final selection of the writings that are included in these volumes:

1. Selections span the breadth of her interests (peace research, peacemaking, feminism, future studies, sociology of the family and Quakerism)
2. To the extent possible, selections cover all periods of her career (early, middle and late) to show how her work evolved over time.
3. Most selections were identified by two or more people as representing significant contributions to the field in question.
