

Contents

Introduction	1
Theoretical Framework	3
References	6
The Impact of Electoral Systems on Women's Political Representation	9
References	16
Mixed Member Proportional System in New Zealand	19
Minor Parties and Disproportionality	20
Women's Political Representation (or Lack Thereof)	21
The Royal Commission on the Electoral System	23
The 1992, 1993 and 2011 Referendum on Electoral Change	24
References	27
Effects of MMP on Women in New Zealand	29
Women in Leadership Roles	34
References	38
Selection and Nomination of Women	41
Women in Political Parties	43
Effects of the Nomination and Selection Process on Women	48
Ranking of Women in Small Parties	48
Ranking of Female Candidates: Labour and National	50
References	52
Substantive Representation	53
Do Female MPs Represent Women's Issues?	54
Demographic Makeup of Members' Bills (1996–2014)	55
Women Friendly Bills	58
Implications of Selected Women-Friendly Members' Bills	60
Paid Parental Leave	60
Domestic Violence	61

Employment and Employment Equity. 63

Children Affairs 64

Legislative Activities: Parliamentary Debates 65

Do Female MPs Represent Women’s Interests? 66

Effects of Party Affiliation and Party Ideologies on the Actions of Female MPs 73

Conclusion 76

References 77

Index 81

The Mixed Member Proportional System: Providing Greater Representation for Women?

A Case Study of the New Zealand Experience

Johnson-Myers, T.-A.

2017, IX, 84 p. 7 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-44313-3