

Contents

1	Introduction and Present-Day Scenario	1
	References	11
2	Porcelain Manufacture in South Wales in the 19th Century	13
2.1	The Influence of William Billingsley	19
2.2	Factory Output	20
	References	25
3	Historical Research Issues	27
3.1	Pattern Numbers: Absence in Nantgarw	28
3.2	Swansea Set Pattern Numbers	34
3.3	Attribution of Artist and Source	36
3.4	Swansea and Nantgarw Artists	38
	References	44
4	A Chronological Summary of the Billingsley Family and Their Contribution to Porcelain Manufacture and Decoration	47
	References	52
5	Burnishing and Gilding	53
	References	56
6	Commercial Exploitation	57
	References	60
7	Service Types and the Importance of Nomenclature in Their Attribution.	61
7.1	Sponsors of Swansea and Nantgarw Porcelains	65
7.2	A Cautionary Word	66
	References	68
8	Armorial Porcelains	69
8.1	Armorial Provenancing and Historical Dating	73
	References	76

9	Documentary Porcelain and Historical Provenancing	79
	References	85
10	The Production of Porcelain Services	87
	10.1 Gilding Versus Painting	87
	10.2 Copies of Well-Known Named Services	89
	10.3 Difficulties in Attribution	92
	References	95
11	The Scientific Analysis of Porcelain	97
	11.1 Porcelain Bodies—A Scientific Appreciation	100
	11.2 The Production of Porcelain: Source Materials and Chemistry	102
	11.3 Lewis Weston Dillwyn's Recipes for the Swansea Porcelain Body	103
	11.3.1 The Chemistry of Phyllosilicates	109
	11.4 Early Analyses of Nantgarw and Swansea Porcelains	111
	11.4.1 Summary of the Wet Chemical Analyses of Eccles and Rackham	113
	11.5 Later Analytical Studies	114
	11.6 General Analytical Conclusions	119
	11.7 Molecular Composition of Porcelain Bodies from Modern Microanalytical Studies	121
	11.8 Final Analytical Conclusions	124
	References	126
12	Named Artists	127
	12.1 The Three Williams—Turner, Price and Billingsley	128
	References	131
13	Classification of Factory Output	133
	Reference	134
14	Nantgarw Porcelain: Named Services	135
	References	148
15	Swansea Porcelain Named Services	149
	References	156
16	Miscellaneous Named Services	157
	16.1 Summary of Stylised Services with Descriptive Names	157
	References	160
17	Conclusions	161
	References	164
18	The Discovery of a Long Lost Nantgarw Dinner-Dessert Service	165
	Reference	171

19 The Attribution of Unknown Porcelain to Swansea or Nantgarw: A Protocol	173
19.1 Measurements of Swansea and Nantgarw Porcelains.	188
References.	190
20 Statement Made by Henry Morris to Colonel Grant Davidson in 1850	191
References.	195
21 William Billingsley—An Epilogue	197
References.	201
Appendix A	203
Appendix B	207
Appendix C	209
Appendix D	217
Appendix E: A Detailed Comparison Between The Lord Ongley Derby Service and its Nantgarw Precursor	223
Appendix F: Nantgarw Porcelain: Measurements and Sizes	245
Appendix G: Swansea Script Marks and their Attribution to William Billingsley's Decoration	249
Glossary	269
Index	275

Swansea and Nantgarw Porcelains

A Scientific Reappraisal

Edwards, H.G.M.

2017, XXXV, 279 p. 106 illus., 104 illus. in color.,

Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-48712-0