

Contents

Part I Introduction

1	Introduction.....	3
----------	--------------------------	----------

Part II Before the Great Reforms

2	First Acquaintances – The Eighteenth Century	15
2.1	Kant’s Königsberg Under Russian Occupation	16
2.2	Students and Travelers in Königsberg	18
2.3	Correspondents	20
2.4	University of Moscow.....	22
3	A New Century and a New Era – Moscow, Kazan, Dorpat	27
3.1	Kant in the Popular Media.....	29
3.2	Kant at Moscow University	36
3.3	Kant at Kazan University.....	40
3.4	Kant at Dorpat (Derpt) University	50
4	A New Century and a New Era – Kharkov, St. Petersburg	53
4.1	Introducing Kant into Kharkov.....	54
4.2	Schad and His School	57
4.3	Osipovskij – The Kharkov Opposition	66
4.4	Kant at St. Petersburg University.....	73
5	Kant in the Theological Academies	83
5.1	Kant in the St. Petersburg Theological Academy	85
5.2	Kant in the Moscow Theological Academy.....	89
5.3	Kant in the Kiev Theological Academy.....	94
6	Kant in the Russian Philosophical Dark Age	107
6.1	The Russian Schellingians.....	108
6.2	The Stankevich Circle.....	112

6.3	Chaadaev – A Singular Figure	114
6.4	The Slavophiles.....	117
6.5	The Dismal University Scene	120
 Part III With and After the Reforms
7	Kant-Criticism in the Era of the Great Reforms	129
7.1	Lavrov's Phenomenalism.....	130
7.2	Lavrov's Moral Philosophy.....	137
7.3	Karpov on Kant's Epistemology.....	141
7.4	Karpov on Kant's Ethics	145
7.5	Jurkevich's Platonic Critique of Criticism.....	147
8	The Calm Sea in the Wake of the Reforms.....	153
8.1	A Russian-Language Translation at Last.....	154
8.2	Troickij – An Unremittingly Hostile Critic.....	156
8.3	Debol'skij – A Flirtation with Criticism	158
8.4	Lesevich – Toward a “Kantian Positivism”?.....	166
8.5	Karinskij – Kant's Dogmatism	172
8.6	Panaev – An Attempt at Popularization.....	175
8.7	Solov'ëv's First Portrayal	176
8.8	Solov'ëv's Mature Assessment	178
9	The Assault on Kant in the Fin de Siècle Theological Academies.....	183
9.1	Kudrjavcev – Consolidation of the Russian Orthodox Critique.....	184
9.2	Nikanor – A Proto-Phenomenological Challenge.....	189
9.3	Rozhdestvenskij – A Theologian's Pause	194
9.4	Antonij – A Neo-Fichtean Approach	196
9.5	Toward a Phenomenological Account of Space and Time.....	199
9.6	Sundry Secondary Studies	202
9.7	Jurkevich's Anti-Intellectual Successor	208
10	The Dam Cracks: Kant Enters the Universities.....	213
10.1	Kozlov: A (Neo-)Leibnizian Critique	215
10.2	N. N. Lange: A Critic of Critical Ethics	218
10.3	Volynskij: A Kantian Culture Critic.....	221
10.4	Vvedenskij: The Fundamental Principles of a Russian Criticism.....	223
10.5	A “Critical” Foray into the Philosophy of Natural Science.....	227
10.6	The Erection of a Kantian Metaphysics.....	231
11	The Dam Breaks: Secular Kant-Interpretation Begins in Earnest.....	237
11.1	Grot – A Leap Backward	239
11.2	Lopatin – A Neo-Leibnizian View	242
11.3	The Karinskij-Vvedenskij Dispute	246

11.4	Chizh – A Russian Psychiatrist Turns to Kant.....	253
11.5	The Kant of the “Legal Marxists”.....	255
11.6	S. N. Trubeckoj – The View from a “Concrete Idealism”	261
12	The Apex of Kant Studies	267
12.1	Chelpanov – The View from an “Ideal-Realism”	268
12.2	Secondary Studies in Kiev	274
12.3	Kant in the Development of Marxist Social Theory	276
12.4	Kant in the Development of Neo-Kantian Social Theory	280
12.5	Kant and the Development of Natural Science and Mathematics	285
12.6	Women Discuss Kant.....	289
13	New Paths in Petersburg	295
13.1	Vvedenskij: A New and Simpler Path	296
13.2	Vvedenskij’s Way to Criticism via Psychology	303
13.3	Vvedenskij’s Logicism: The Russian Way	307
13.4	Lapshin’s Categorialization of Space, Time, and the Transcendental I	309
13.5	Losskij’s Intuitivist Critique of the Critique	314
13.6	Borgman: A Judicious Look at the “Transcendental Aesthetic”	321
14	The Specter of War and Revolution	325
14.1	Ern – Kant as Intellectual Precursor of German Militarism	327
14.2	Ognëv – An Intuitivist Disciple Looks at Kant.....	334
14.3	Evgenij Trubeckoj – The Dénouement of a Solov’ëvian Epistemology	337
14.4	Prodan – In Defense of Common Sense	342
14.5	Jakovenko – Philosophy as the Transcendental Logic of Cognition	345
14.6	Fokht – Cohen’s Unabashed Disciple	349
Part IV Epilogue
15	Epilogue as Conclusion	357
Bibliography of Works Cited		363
Index		383

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-52913-4>

Kant in Imperial Russia

Nemeth, Th.

2017, IX, 389 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-52913-4