

Contents

|                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                           |            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 1                                                                                                                     | Introduction: Thinking Globally and Acting Locally—Exploring the Relationships Between Community,Archaeological Heritage, and Local Government . . . . . | 1   |
|                                                                                                                              | Sherene Baugher, Douglas R. Appler and William Moss                                                                                                                       |            |
| Part I The Challenges and Accomplishments of Local GovernmentArchaeology Programs in the Commonwealth of Nations |                                                                                                                                                                           |            |
| 2                                                                                                                     | Planning Archaeology in World Cities: Looking at London . . . . .                                                                                                  | 17  |
|                                                                                                                              | Hana Morel, Joseph Flatman and Kim Stabler                                                                                                                                |            |
| 3                                                                                                                     | Preservation, Participation and the Pursuit of Knowledge:Strategic Policy and Archaeological Practice Withinthe City of York 1989–2015 . . . . .         | 35  |
|                                                                                                                              | John Oxley                                                                                                                                                                |            |
| 4                                                                                                                     | Crowdsourcing the Story of Bristol . . . . .                                                                                                                       | 53  |
|                                                                                                                              | Peter Insole                                                                                                                                                              |            |
| 5                                                                                                                     | Archaeological Resource Management in Toronto:Planning, Preservation, and Interpretation . . . . .                                                            | 69  |
|                                                                                                                              | Ronald F. Williamson, David A. Robertson and Susan Hughes                                                                                                                 |            |
| 6                                                                                                                     | Under the Old Stones of Kingston, Ontario: The Cityof Kingston Archaeological Master Planning Process(1987–2011) . . . . .                               | 91  |
|                                                                                                                              | Marcus R. Létourneau                                                                                                                                                      |            |
| 7                                                                                                                     | Quebec City’s Archaeological Programmeand Provincial Cultural Heritage Legislation . . . . .                                                                  | 115 |
|                                                                                                                              | William Moss                                                                                                                                                              |            |

|                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                          |            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 8                                                                                                        | Archaeology Down Under: Management and Outcomes in the First State in Australia.                                                  | 137 |
|                                                                                                                 | Siobhán Lavelle                                                                                                                          |            |
| 9                                                                                                        | From Alliance to Dissonance: Two Centuries of Local Archaeology and Conservation in Indian Cities. The Case of Lucknow, India     | 161 |
|                                                                                                                 | Ashima Krishna                                                                                                                           |            |
| Part II The Challenges and Accomplishments of Local Government Archaeology Programs in the United States |                                                                                                                                          |            |
| 10                                                                                                       | Toward a Theory of Municipal Archaeology: Why Local Government Should Become Public Archaeology's New Best Friend.                | 183 |
|                                                                                                                 | Douglas R. Appler                                                                                                                        |            |
| 11                                                                                                       | We Dig Alexandria: A Reflection on More Than Fifty Years of Community Archaeology                                                 | 203 |
|                                                                                                                 | Francine Bromberg, Pamela Cressey, Garrett Fesler, Paul Nasca and Ruth Reeder                                                            |            |
| 12                                                                                                       | Reflections on the New York City Archaeology Program (1980–2016)                                                                  | 227 |
|                                                                                                                 | Sherene Baugher                                                                                                                          |            |
| 13                                                                                                       | Digging the Hub: The Evolution of the Boston City Archaeology Program                                                             | 257 |
|                                                                                                                 | Joe Bagley                                                                                                                               |            |
| 14                                                                                                       | Phoenix Rising: The Development of a Municipal Archaeology Program in Arizona, USA.                                               | 277 |
|                                                                                                                 | Todd W. Bostwick                                                                                                                         |            |
| 15                                                                                                       | Municipal Archaeology Policies as a Vector in Public Outreach Programs: Digging Up Dirt for the Masses in St. Augustine, Florida. | 299 |
|                                                                                                                 | Carl D. Halbirt and Sarah E. Miller                                                                                                      |            |
| 16                                                                                                       | Like No Other Place: Albuquerque's Archaeological Odyssey                                                                         | 321 |
|                                                                                                                 | Matthew Schmader                                                                                                                         |            |
|                                                                                                                 | Index                                                                                                                             | 343 |

Urban Archaeology, Municipal Government and Local Planning

Preserving Heritage within the Commonwealth of Nations and the United States

Baughner, S.; Appler, D.R.; Moss, W. (Eds.)

2017, VIII, 345 p. 85 illus., 73 illus. in color., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-55488-4