

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Darrell P. Arnold and Andreas Michel
 Part I Reverberations of Marx and Lukács
2	What is the “Philosophy of Praxis”?	17
	Steven Vogel
3	Philosophy of Praxis or Philosophical Anthropology?
	Andrew Feenberg and Axel Honneth on Lukács’s Theory of Reification	47
	Konstantinos Kavoulakos
4	Gegenständlichkeit—From Marx to Lukács and Back Again	71
	Christian Lotz
5	Feenberg, Rationality and Isolation	91
	Clive Lawson

Part II Between Democracy and a Politics of Resistance

- 6 Transforming Dystopia with Democracy: The Technical Code and the Critical Theory of Technology 117
Graeme Kirkpatrick
- 7 Andrew Feenberg's Ecological Modernism 139
Darrell P. Arnold
- 8 Between Instrumentalism and Determinism: Western Marxism and Feenberg's Critical Theory of Technology 163
Matthew Greaves

Part III From Heidegger Through Postmodernism:
The Ongoing Role of the Critical Theory of Technology

- 9 The Question Concerning a Vital Technology: Heideggerian Influences on the Philosophy of Andrew Feenberg 193
Dana S. Belu
- 10 Future Questions: Democracy and the New Converging Technologies 217
Andreas Michel
- 11 Revisiting Critical Theory in the Twenty-First Century 241
Raphael Sassower
- 12 Andrew Feenberg, Critical Theory, and the Critique of Technology 263
Douglas Kellner

Part IV A Critical Response

- 13 Replies to Critics: Epistemology, Ontology, Methodology 285
Andrew Feenberg

14	Appendix: Interview with Bruna Della Torre de Carvalho Lima and Eduardo Altheman Camargo Santos	319
	Bruna Della Torre de Carvalho Lima and Eduardo Altheman Camargo Santos
	Index	327

Critical Theory and the Thought of Andrew Feenberg

Arnold, D.P.; Michel, A. (Eds.)

2017, XII, 332 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-57896-5