

Contents

1 Introduction	1
1.1 The Waldorf School Movement: Facts and Fiction	1
1.2 Steiner and Progressivism	4
1.3 Research on Waldorf Education and the Reception of Steiner's Educational and Philosophical Ideas	5
1.4 About This Book and the Following Chapters	9
References	11
2 The Formation of a Western Sage	15
2.1 The Formative Years: Childhood and Youth	17
2.2 Steiner as a Young Man	22
2.3 Emerging as a Philosopher	24
2.4 Steiner's Relation to Christianity	30
2.5 Steiner as Practical Pedagogue	31
2.6 Conclusion	33
References	33
3 Steiner's Philosophy and Its Educational Relevance	37
3.1 Steiner's Philosophical Works	37
3.2 Steiner's Phenomenological Theory of Knowledge	38
3.2.1 Knowledge as Non-representational	39
3.2.2 Points of Similarity with John Dewey	40
3.2.3 Goethe and Nietzsche	41
3.2.4 Rigid Definitions Versus Living Concepts	43
3.2.5 The Freedom of Thinking	45
3.3 Ethical Individualism	47
3.4 Steiner's 'Philosophy of the Human Being'	50
References	53

4	Anthroposophy as the Basis for Pedagogical Anthropology	57
4.1	A Neglected Field of Educational Thought.	57
4.2	The Four-Folded Structure of the Human Being.	59
4.3	The Three Soul Functions: Thinking, Feeling and Will, and Their Bodily Correspondences.	63
4.4	The Four Temperaments.	66
4.5	Steiner's Aesthesiology (Sinneslehre).	68
4.6	The Far-Sighted View: The Lifespan Development of the Individual and the Evolution of Humanity	71
4.6.1	The Nine-Year Crisis	73
4.6.2	Steiner's Cultural Psychology	75
4.6.3	The Educational Spiral: A Romantic Idea Implicit in Steiner's Educational Thinking?	76
	References.	78
5	The Curriculum of Waldorf Education: Some Basic Principles and Practices	83
5.1	General Remarks	83
5.2	Some Basic Curriculum Principles	87
5.2.1	General Principles.	88
5.2.2	Specific Principles.	93
5.3	Being a Waldorf Teacher	102
5.3.1	Being Responsible for the World	102
5.3.2	Being Able to Relate.	103
5.3.3	Cultivating One's Inner Life	103
5.3.4	The Personhood of the Teacher: The Importance of 'Who You Are'	105
5.3.5	About Planning One's Teaching	105
5.4	A Note on School Architecture.	107
	References.	108
6	The Social and Political Aspects of Education	113
6.1	The Essential Task of Education and the Nature of Modern Society	113
6.2	Culture, Lifeworld and Civil Society	118
6.3	Education as a Cultural Practice	120
	References.	123
7	Conclusion: Does It Work? Empirical Studies of Waldorf Education.	125
7.1	Difficulties in Evaluating the Effects of Waldorf Schools	125
7.2	Surveys of Waldorf Students and Graduates, and Comparisons with Students and Graduates from Mainstream Schools	126

7.3	Studies of Waldorf Science Education	131
7.4	Studies of Waldorf Civic Education	133
7.5	A British Study of Waldorf Educational Aims and Methods	137
7.6	Do Waldorf Students Become Anthroposophists?	138
7.7	Conclusion	139
	References.	141

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-58906-0>

Rudolf Steiner

The Relevance of Waldorf Education

Dahlin, B.

2017, XI, 143 p., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-58906-0