

Contents

1	Astrophysics Since the Middle of the Twentieth Century	1
	Light and Electromagnetic Waves	2
	New Discoveries in Astrophysics	3
	Temporal Variation Is the Rule for the New Classes of Object	9
	Change, a Universal Constant	9
2	Astronomers and Time	11
	Time, Apparent Motion of the Heavenly Bodies, and Mechanics	11
	The Seasons	12
	Time and Organisation of Society	13
	Time and Navigation	16
	Time and Ritual	17
	Astronomy in the Service of Society	18
3	Astronomy and Modern Society	19
	Astronomy and Technology	19
	Practical Uses for Space Technology	24
	Science Is One Technological Driving Force Among Others	25
	Astronomy and Geopolitics	26
4	Science: Pleasure and Culture	29
	Science and Harmony	29
	Science and Pleasure	30
	From Idea to Knowledge	31
	Science Can Be Communicated	33
	Science as a Classical Aesthetic	33
	Science as a Source of Collective Culture	34
	Knowledge and Art	35

5 Knowledge, Management of the Environment, and Responsibility	39
The Impact of Fundamental Science on Society	39
Science and Innovation	40
The Practical Scope of Human and Social Sciences	41
Knowledge and Responsibility	42
What Knowledge Is at Work in the Evolution of Our Environment?	44
6 Knowledge and Politics	47
Science Victorious	47
Political and Scientific Communities	48
Difficulties for the Dialogue Between Science and Politics	49
Science and Power	51
Public Perception of Science	52
Independence of Scientists in Their Role of Knowledge Provider	53
Scientists in the World of Politics	55
7 Beyond Nations	57
From the Science of the Day to Universality	57
The Earth as a Spacecraft	58
Power Is Concentrated in Countries	59
International Powers	60
Moves Toward Regional and Global Powers	61
The European Model	63
8 Science Is Not Everything in Life	65
Feelings	65
Collective Emotions and Convictions	66
The Role of Emotions, Convictions, Knowledge, and Reason in Our Decisions	66

From Stars to States

A Manifest for Science in Society

Courvoisier, T.

2017, XVI, 67 p. 15 illus., 11 illus. in color. With

Translated from the French original Des Etoiles aux

Etats - Manifeste pour une gouvernance à l'écoute de la science., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-59231-2