

Contents

Introduction	1
Annalisa Coliva and Nikolaj Jang Lee Linding Pedersen
1 Varieties of Epistemic Pluralism	1
2 Motivations for Epistemic Pluralism	7
3 Epistemic Pluralism: Further Articulations, Motivations, and Criticisms	9
4 Epistemic Pluralism and Epistemic Relativism	13
5 Epistemic Pluralism: Some Applications	14
References	17

Part I Epistemic Pluralism: Methodological Issues

Explicationist Epistemology and Epistemic Pluralism	23
Erik J. Olsson
1 Introduction	23
2 Carnap and the Method of Explication	24
3 Explicationist Epistemology	27

4	Explicationist Epistemology and Pluralism	34
5	Comparison with Alston's Theory of Epistemic Desiderata	40
	References	45
	Pure Epistemic Pluralism	47
	Nikolaj Jang Lee Linding Pedersen
1	Pluralism	47
2	Some Varieties of Epistemic Pluralism	49
3	The Epistemic Scope Problem	52
4	Pure Epistemic Pluralism	56
5	Pure Epistemic Pluralism, Anyone?	63
6	Collapse Arguments	69
7	Comments and Responses	73
8	Concluding Remarks	80
	References	90
	A Plea for Epistemic Monism	93
	Pascal Engel
1	Introduction	93
2	Motivations for Epistemic Pluralism	96
3	Three Kinds of Epistemic Pluralism	101
4	Why Epistemic Pluralism Is Not Really Pluralist	108
5	Epistemological Disjunctivism Is Not an Epistemic Pluralism	112
6	Two Corollaries: Pragmatic Encroachment and Epistemic Injustice	117
7	Conclusion: Monism After All	121
	References	123

Part II    Epistemic Pluralism: Justification, Knowledge, and Epistemic Values

The Pluralism of Justification	129
Anne Meylan
1    What Is a Justified Belief? The Higher-Order and the Basis Question	129
2    Classical Reliabilism and the Trans-Categorical Feature	133
3    The Ordinary Vs. the Technical Use of the Predicate “Justified”	136
4    Conclusion	140
References	142
Knowledge Second (for Metaphilosophy)	145
Jennifer Nado
1    The Skepticism Problem	147
2    Dealing with the Overlap Problem	153
3    Epistemic Standards in Professional Inquiry	156
4    The Multiplicity of Epistemic Standards	161
5    The Epistemic Standards of Philosophy	164
References	167
Pluralism About Knowledge	171
Robin McKenna
1    Introductory Remarks	171
2    The Case for Knowledge Pluralism	173
3    Standards Pluralism, Contextualism and Epistemic Relativism	180
4    The Case Against Standards Pluralism	184
5    Sketch of a Response	190
6    Concluding Remarks	193
References	196

Part III Epistemic Pluralism and Epistemic Relativism

Epistemic Relativism and Pluralism	203
Martin Kusch
1 Introduction	203
2 Boghossian on Epistemic Systems and the Galileo-Bellarmino Controversy	205
3 Seidel's Further Development of Boghossian's Argument	209
4 Mystical Perception	210
5 Rethinking the Role of Revelation the Galileo-Bellarmino Controversy	213
6 The Areas of Agreement and Disagreement Between Galileo and Bellarmine	215
7 Isolationism Vs. Holism; Foundationalism Vs. Coherentism	217
8 Conclusions	221
9 Postscript: Two Forms of Epistemic Pluralism	223
References	227
Epistemic Pluralism, Epistemic Relativism and 'Hinge' Epistemology	229
J. Adam Carter
1 Introduction	229
2 Descriptive Epistemic Pluralism, Epistemic Incommensurability and Relativism	231
3 Pritchard on Descriptive Pluralism and Radically Divergent Hinges	236
4 Shared Backgrounds and the Über Hinge Commitment	238
5 Non-relativistic 'Hinge' Epistemology? Some Further Thoughts	243
References	248

Part IV Epistemic Pluralism: Some Applications

How to Be a Pluralist About Self-Knowledge 253

Annalisa Coliva

1	Introduction	253
2	Pluralism About Self-Knowledge: An Outline	255
3	The Asymmetry Between First- and Third-Personal Self-Knowledge I: Against Deniers	257
4	The Asymmetry Between First- and Third-Personal Self-Knowledge II: Against Chauvinists	261
5	The Common Route to Denial and Chauvinism: Monism	263
6	Third-Personal Self-Knowledge: Methodological Pluralism	265
7	First-Personal Self-Knowledge: Property Pluralism	271
8	Conclusion	274
	References	283

How to Be a Pluralist About Disagreement 285

Michele Palmira

1	Introduction and Overview	285
2	Four Varieties of Disagreement	287
3	Disjunctive Pluralism	291
4	Kinship Pluralism	299
5	Possible Extensions: Agnostic and Group Disagreement	306
6	Conclusions	311
	References	314

A Pluralistic Way Out of Epistemic Deflationism About
Ontological Disputes 317

Delia Belleri

1	The Composition Debate	317
2	Bennett’s Epistemicism About the Composition Debate	319
3	External and Internal Justification	321
4	A Closer Look at Internal Justification	325
5	The Primacy of Internal Justification	333

x      Contents

6	Pluralism about Perspectives and Methodological Relativism	335
7	Rethinking Disagreement in the Light of Internal Justification	337
8	Conclusion	339
	References	342
	Index	345

<http://www.springer.com/978-3-319-65459-1>

Epistemic Pluralism

Coliva, A.; Jang Lee Linding Pedersen, N. (Eds.)

2017, XIII, 347 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-65459-1