

Contents

- 1 Introduction 11
 - 1.1 Transnationalism studies: state-of-the-art and the perspective of the book 12
 - 1.2 Studying Armenian transnational ties and components of belonging: the research questions 16
 - 1.3 Methodological framework and research methods 19
 - 1.3.1 Data collection and analysis 19
 - 1.3.2 Reflections on the fieldwork: an Armenian researcher studying the Armenian community 23
 - 1.4 Outline of the book 25
- 2 Transnationalism and Diaspora. Analytical Frameworks 29
 - 2.1 Transnational approach in studying migration 30
 - 2.1.1 Traditions of studying transnational migration 30
 - 2.1.2 Definition of transnationalism 32
 - 2.1.3 New social phenomenon or the familiar transformed in its meaning? 37
 - 2.1.4 Durability of transnationalism: reproduction of ties vs. fading connections 39
 - 2.1.5 Transnational social fields as analytical categories 43
 - 2.1.6 Conceptual triad of ‘configurations–representations–encounters’ in transnationalism studies 46
 - 2.2 Who are diasporas and why are they transnational? 52
 - 2.2.1 Concept of diaspora 52
 - 2.2.2 Transnational community or diaspora 59
 - Concluding remarks 61
- 3 Historical Background of Armenian Migration, and Formation of the Armenian Diaspora. Manifestations of the Strategic Nationalism 63
 - 3.1 Historical background and waves of Armenian migration 63
 - 3.2 Formation of the Armenian diaspora 67
 - 3.3 Strategic nationalism: the case of the Armenian diaspora 74
 - 3.3.1 Definition of long-distance nationalism 74

3.3.2 Core aspects of Armenian collective memory as underlying factors of strategic nationalism formation	79
3.3.3 Development of Armenian strategic nationalism in transnational social fields	85
3.4 Armenians in Germany	89
3.4.1 Immigration to Germany: a retrospective glance	90
3.4.2 German–Armenian associations: transnational practices	93
Concluding remarks	97
4 Peculiarities of Armenian Transnational Ties	99
4.1 Configurations	99
4.2 Encounters: everyday practices in diverse realities	104
4.3 Social environment and connections: peculiarities of social ties	112
4.4 Cross-border social ties: the role of contact recipients in determining sustainability of ties	125
Concluding remarks	130
5 Modes of Representation in Transnational Social Fields	133
5.1 Presenting own ways of being: self-identification	134
5.1.1 Ways of being and modes of self-identification	137
5.1.2 Emotional and pragmatic aspects of self-identification	144
5.2 ‘Who are you?’: perceptions of the self	146
5.3 Media as a mode of representation	150
5.3.1 Media and mediatized reality	150
5.3.2 General overview and thematic on German–Armenian online social networks	154
5.3.3 Representation of transnational activity in online media: example of two cases	157
Concluding remarks	175
6 Components of Belonging	179
6.1 Mother tongue and religion as symbols of Armenian belonging	179
6.1.1 Armenian Church and Christianity	181
6.1.2 Armenian language and writing	190
6.2 Home, homeland, and belonging	197
6.2.1 Where the home is	199
6.2.2 Discourse of return	211
6.3 Manifestations of the sense of belonging	213
6.4 Fluctuating transnationalism: continuity principle of transnational ties	218
6.4.1 Fluctuations of transnational ties and practices	219

6.4.2 Back-and-forth travels to the homeland	222
Concluding remarks	227
7 Conclusions	231
7.1 Studying transnational and diasporic social environments	232
7.2 Multiple realities and representations in various configurations	233
7.3 Strategic nationalism and fluctuating transnationalism: modes of attachments to the land of origin	236
7.4 General considerations and avenues for future research	238
Bibliography	243

Fluctuating Transnationalism
Social Formation and Reproduction among Armenians in Germany
Chaloyan, A.
2017, IX, 253 p. 9 illus., Softcover
ISBN: 978-3-658-18825-2