

Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	Unrest on the China Coast	5
2.1	Background to Maritime Activities	5
2.2	Trade and Security	8
2.3	The Great Pirate War and Aftermath	10
2.4	Here Came the Red-Haired Dutch	25
3	The Rise of Zheng Zhilong	35
3.1	Zheng's Early Life	35
3.2	From Pirate to Warlord	41
4	Zheng Chenggong's Politicization of the China Coast	57
5	From Dutch Taiwan to Zheng Taiwan	81
6	The Antagonism Across the Taiwan Strait	109
7	The Politics of Peace Talks	127
7.1	The Ideological Obstacle to Peace	128
7.2	Holding Peace in Play	130
7.3	The Breakdown of Peace Talk and Its Resumption	136
7.4	No Light at the End of the Peace Tunnel	141
8	Shi Lang the Admiral	143
8.1	A Rising Star from the Ranks	144
8.2	Escape from Zheng's Wrath and Defection to the Qing	146
8.3	The Road to Become the Naval Chief	152
9	The Crucial Naval Battle Near Penghu	159
9.1	Controversy Over Strategy	160
9.2	The Naval Battles off the Penghu Islands	164
9.3	Shi's Policy of Rehabilitation	173
9.4	The Beginning of the End	174

10	Taiwan's Integration with China	177
10.1	The Decision to Surrender	178
10.2	Repay Injury with Kindness	180
10.3	Celebration of Victory with Jubilation	183
10.4	The Decision of Annexation	187
10.5	The Emperor and the Admiral	190
10.6	The Legacies of the Taiwan Conquest	192
11	Conclusion	199
	Maps	203
	References	211
	Index	235

China's Conquest of Taiwan in the Seventeenth Century

Victory at Full Moon

Wong, Y.-t.

2017, VI, 242 p. 9 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-10-2247-0