

Contents

1	Peasants and Top-Level Politics	1
1.1	Peasants' Political Enlightenment	1
1.1.1	Peasants and China's Politics	1
1.1.2	Village Self-governance and Democratic Enlightenment	2
1.1.3	Protests for Rights and Democratic Enlightenment	4
1.1.4	Political Culture: Evolution and Enlightenment	7
1.1.5	The Important Role of Enlightenment	10
1.2	A Fundamental Reform Experience	12
1.3	Government Philosophy and the Rural Reform	17
1.4	Central Government Local Government and Peasants	22
2	Peasants and Grassroots Government	29
2.1	Where Is Government Reform Going?	29
2.1.1	Grassroots Democracy	29
2.1.2	Grassroots Self-governance	32
2.1.3	Construction of Rule by Law	36
2.2	Good Policies and Good Implementation	39
2.3	Government Performance in Public Service Perspective	42
2.4	Political Development in Public Participation Perspective	44
2.5	"Income Account" of Township Government	47
2.6	Government Reform in Local Government Corporatization Perspective	49
2.6.1	Local State Corporatism	50
2.6.2	Corporatism and State Corporatism	52
2.6.3	Local Government Corporatization	56

3	Peasants and Rural Democracy	63
3.1	Prospect of Rural Democracy	63
3.2	Guarantee of a Harmonious Society	74
3.3	Social Foundation of Village Self-governance	77
3.4	Innovation of Village Governance System	83
3.5	Growth Requirements from Peasant Groups	87
3.6	Difficult Growth of Village Democracy	90
3.7	When Elections Enter Villages	94
3.8	The Second Round of Land Contract	107
3.9	How Did Tax Burden Become a “Problem”	115
3.10	Why Did Village Affairs Management Crisis Occur?	126
4	Peasants and Social Construction	139
4.1	Stability Maintenance and Political Reform	139
4.2	The Chess of Petition System Reform Is Out of the Game	148
4.3	Governments’ Role in the Labor Market	151
4.4	Institutional Innovation and Social Integration	152
4.4.1	“Floating Population” Has Become a Major Challenge for Grassroots Management	152
4.4.2	The Key to Social Transformation Lies in Cities	153
4.4.3	Cultural Estrangement and Institutional Defects as the Obstacle of Social Integration	153
4.4.4	Institutional Supply at the Macro Level is Indispensable to “Integration”	153
4.5	Narration by Protesting Peasants	154
4.5.1	External Features of the Letters	155
4.5.2	The Source of Conflicts: Exploitation	156
4.5.3	Escalation of Conflict: Compulsion	161
4.5.4	Conflicts and the Growth of Peasants’ Awareness of Rights	163
4.5.5	A Brief Discussion	165
4.6	Protesting Peasants in Beijing	167
4.6.1	Petitioner: The Emergence of Elite Style Figures	168
4.6.2	Petition Demands: Group Expression of Interests	170
4.6.3	Petition: A Rational Appealing Process	172
4.6.4	Escalation of Petition: Conflict Accumulation Factor	174
4.6.5	Peasant Petition: Understandings and Proposals	175
4.7	How Do Peasants Watch TV?	176
4.7.1	The Hardware Level of Peasants’ TVs	177
4.7.2	TV Watching Behavioral Features	178
4.7.3	Basic Assessment of the Programs	180
4.7.4	The Program’s Direct Help for Peasants	181
4.7.5	Peasants’ First Opinion About TV Network and TV Programs	182

4.8	How Do Peasants Learn Technology?	185
4.8.1	12% Interviewed Peasants Think that “Farming is the Most Likely Way to Become Rich” and 11% Think that “Being a Cadre is The Most Promising Way to Become Rich”	185
4.8.2	54.5% Respondents Are Willing to Farm for the Primary Reason that Farming Can Solve Food Problem. As the Survey Shows: Peasants Seriously Lack the Initiative of Farming with 54.5% Respondents Willing and 45.3% Unwilling to Farm	186
4.8.3	91% Peasants Regard New Technology as Necessary for Farming But There is No Smooth Channel for Technology Supply	187
4.8.4	29.3% Respondents Have Received Grassroots Technology Services with Mainly Positive Assessment of the Quality of Service.	188
4.8.5	22.2% Respondents Received Different Forms of Technological Trainings and Expert Lectures in Villages Are Most Popular Among Peasants.	189
4.8.6	Peasants Have Comprehensive and Strong Needs for Information and TV is the Most Convenient Channel to Get Information But the Inter-Villagers Dissemination and Influence Are Worthy of Special Attention.	190
5	Peasants and Local Officials	193
5.1	A Municipal Party Secretary’s Peasant Standing	193
5.2	A County Party Secretary’s Feelings of Writing.	197
5.3	The Portrait of a Township Party Secretary’s Governance	199
5.4	A Township Party Secretary’s Career as a Scholar.	202
5.5	A Township Party Secretary’s Extraordinary Official Career	205
	Postscript	209

Regeneration of Peasants

Zhao, S.

2017, XV, 211 p. 2 illus., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-10-3312-4