

Contents

Part I Analysis

1	An Analysis of “New Social Policies” and the Realization Path. . . .	3
	Ming Wang and Lan Yuxin
1	Conceptualization and Formulation of New Social Policies. . . . .	4
2	Connotations of New Social Policies: Three Strategies . . . . .	6
2.1	The First Strategy: NGO System Reform . . . . .	6
2.2	The Second Strategy: Reform of Social Service System. . . . .	8
2.3	The Third Strategy: Reform of Social Governance System . . . . .	9
3	Outlook: Realization Path of New Social Policies. . . . .	11
2	An Exposition of China’s New System—A Modern NGO System . . . . .	13
	Ming Wang
1	The Inevitability, Importance and Urgency of Establishing a Modern NGO System. . . . .	13
1.1	Inevitability . . . . .	14
1.2	Importance . . . . .	16
1.3	Urgency . . . . .	20
2	Basic Content and Tendency of a Modern NGO System . . . . .	21
2.1	Three Basic Premises of NGO Reform in China . . . . .	21
2.2	Five Aspects of China’s Modern NGO System . . . . .	25
3	Practical Exploration and Institutional Innovation in Co-governance by Multiple Subjects . . . . .	33
	Ming Wang and Chunting Wang
1	Social Co-governance: Practical Exploration in Co-governance by Multiple Subjects. . . . .	33
1.1	Inevitability of Multi-Subject Co-governance . . . . .	33
1.2	Practical Exploration in Multi-Subject Co-governance . . . . .	35

2	Social Co-governance: Institutional Innovation in Co-governance by Multiple Subjects. . . . .	36
2.1	Subject of Multi-Subject Co-governance . . . . .	37
2.2	A Multi-Subject Co-governance System. . . . .	38
2.3	Mechanism for Multi-Subject Co-governance. . . . .	39
2.4	Institutional Guarantee for Multi-Subject Co-governance . . . .	41
2.5	Results of Multi-Subject Co-governance. . . . .	42
3	Conclusion . . . . .	43
4	Incremental Co-governance: Investigation of Hangzhou Experience of Driving Reform Through Innovation . . . . .	45
	Ming Wang and Liu Guohan
1	Social Co-governance and Predicament for Its Realization . . . . .	46
2	Growing Point of Social Co-governance in Hangzhou . . . . .	48
2.1	Expanding New Fields for Social Management . . . . .	50
2.2	Cultivating New Social Subjects. . . . .	53
2.3	Linking Structure of Innovative Subjects . . . . .	54
3	Operating Mechanism of Social Co-governance in Hangzhou. . . . .	57
3.1	Extracting Value and Concept, and Forming Common Vision and Mission. . . . .	57
3.2	Taking Initiatives to Cut Powers and Transfer Functions, Creating Space for Sharing and Interaction. . . . .	59
3.3	Eliminating Departmental Barrier and Exploring Universal Evaluation Mechanism . . . . .	61
4	Incremental Innovation Driving Stock Innovation . . . . .	62
4.1	Demonstration Effect . . . . .	62
4.2	Furnace Effect. . . . .	63
4.3	Reverse-Pressurizing Effect. . . . .	64
5	Successful Factors for Incremental Co-governance . . . . .	65
6	Conclusions and Discussions. . . . .	66
5	Transfer of Governing Power: Wenzhou Experience in Approach to Realizing Multi-subject Co-governance . . . . .	69
	Ming Wang
1	Origin of Theories on Co-governance and Difference Between China and Western Countries . . . . .	70
2	The Origin of and Practical Innovation for Multi-subject Co-governance in Wenzhou . . . . .	72
2.1	Origin of Multi-subject Co-governance. . . . .	72
2.2	Practical Innovation for Multi-subject Co-governance . . . . .	73
3	“Transfer of Governing Powers”: Approach to Realizing Multi- subject Co-governance . . . . .	75

3.1	Implication of “Transfer of Governing Powers” . . . . .	75
3.2	Mechanism for “Transfer of Governing Powers” . . . . .	77
4	Behind Choice of Approach: Joint Action by the Government and the Society . . . . .	80
4.1	Proactive Reform and Innovation by the Government . . . . .	80
4.2	Promotion by Non-governmental Sectors . . . . .	82
5	Thinking and Outlook . . . . .	83

Part II Commentaries

6	On “Social Management Innovations” . . . . .	87
	Ming Wang
1	Social Management Innovations to Start with Party and Government Institutional Reform . . . . .	88
2	The CPC Represents Interests of the Whole People . . . . .	89
3	Allow the Society to Get Developed . . . . .	90
4	The Advance of State Sector and Retreat of Private Sector in Social Field Is not a Big Deal. . . . .	91
5	Give Space to Unregistered Organizations . . . . .	92
7	Modernization of the State: Let NGOs Become Real Subjects of Social Governance . . . . .	95
	Ming Wang
1	Introduction . . . . .	95
8	On Mechanisms for Promoting Social Structural Reform . . . . .	99
	Ming Wang
9	Separation of Government Administration and NGO Management: Key to Deepening Innovations in Social Governance . . . . .	103
	Ming Wang
10	Comprehensively Deepening Reform and Stepping up Efforts to Form a Modern NGO System . . . . .	111
	M. Wang
11	On Government Purchasing Services . . . . .	119
	Ming Wang
12	On Hangzhou: “We” Is a Kind of Ideological Emancipation and Social Reconstruction . . . . .	125
	Ming Wang

13 On NGOs in Wenzhou and Social Innovation. . . . .	131
Ming Wang
1 Wenzhou Spirit . . . . .	131
2 Characteristics of Wenzhou . . . . .	135
3 Institutional Advantage . . . . .	136
4 Opportunities and Challenges . . . . .	138
 Part III Suggestions and Recommendations
14 Recommendations on Enactment of Basic Laws Concerning NGOs . . . . .	143
Ming Wang
15 Policy Recommendations on Construction of Professional Careers for NGO-Related Talents . . . . .	149
Ming Wang
1 First, Establish a Sound Professional System for NGO-Related Talents . . . . .	150
2 Second, Establish Professional Titles for NGO-Related Professional Personnel. . . . .	151
3 Third, Improve the Evaluation Mechanism for NGO-Related Talents . . . . .	151
4 Fourth, Improve the System Guarantee for NGO-Related Talents . . . . .	152
16 Policy Recommendations on Construction of NGO Talent Cultivation System . . . . .	153
Ming Wang
17 Policy Recommendations on Promotion of NGOs’ Participation in Global Governance. . . . .	157
Ming Wang
18 NGO Reform: Recommendations on Deepening Reform of Social Welfare Enterprises . . . . .	161
Ming Wang
19 NGO Innovations: Conceptions and Recommendations on Bank of Public Interests . . . . .	167
Ming Wang
20 Policy Recommendations on Encouraging Development of Social Enterprises . . . . .	175
Ming Wang

21 Recommendations on Deepening Cooperation Between Mainland China, Hong Kong, Macao and Taiwan
to Establish “Special Zones for Social Governance”..... 179
Ming Wang

Postscript..... 183

References..... 185

Index..... 187

<http://www.springer.com/978-981-10-3402-2>

A Discussion on Chinese Road of NGOs
Reform and Co-governance by Society

Wang, M. (Ed.)

2017, XV, 189 p., Hardcover

ISBN: 978-981-10-3402-2