Contents

1 Understanding International Communications 1
1.1 International Communication and National Image 1
1.1.1 Definition and Characteristics of International Communication 2
1.1.2 Functions of International Communication 6
1.1.3 National Image and International Communication 9
1.2 International Communication in Broadcast Media 14
1.2.1 Communication Actors Within International Broadcast Media 15
1.2.2 Content of International Broadcasting 18
1.2.3 Analysis of International Broadcast Media 21
1.2.4 Audience Analysis of International Broadcast Media 24
1.2.5 Communication Effects of International Broadcast Media 26
1.3 The Changing Environment of International Communications 29
1.3.1 Overview 29
1.3.2 Globalisation and Knowledge in the Information Age 36
1.3.3 New Trajectories of International Communication 39

2 International Communications in Western Broadcast Media 43
2.1 Past and Present: US, UK, and Japan 43
2.1.1 International Communications of American Broadcast Media 44
2.1.2 International Communications of British Broadcast Media 50
2.1.3 International Communication of Japanese Broadcast Media 53

2.2 Learning from the Macro Experience 57
2.2.1 International Communication Systems 57
2.2.2 The Macro Aspects of International Communications 62
2.2.3 International Media Groups 65
2.3 Learning from the Meso Experience 69
2.3.1 Human Resources 69
2.3.2 Channel Building 70
2.3.3 Audience 72
2.4 Learning from the Micro Experience 75
2.4.1 Communication Ideas 75
2.4.2 Communication Content 77
2.4.3 Communication Methods 79
2.4.4 Communication Technology 80

3 International Communications in China's Broadcast Media 83
3.1 Overview 83
3.1.1 State-Level International Radio and TV Media 84
3.1.2 Provincial Radio and TV Media in International Communications 86
3.1.3 Other International Radio and TV Media 90
3.2 The Macro Situation 92
3.2.1 The Management Structure of Media Organisation 92
3.2.2 Chinese Broadcast and TV Organisations 93
3.2.3 Policy Support 97
3.2.4 Problems 100
3.3 The Meso Situation 109
3.3.1 Talent Cultivation 109
3.3.2 Audiences 114
3.3.3 Problems 116
3.4 The Micro Situation 122
3.4.1 Communication Concepts 122
3.4.2 Communication Content 129
3.4.3 Communication Skills 132
3.4.4 Media Technologies 134
3.4.5 Problems 136
3.5 The Causes of Chinese Broadcasters' Limited International Communicative Capabilities 142
3.5.1 External Causes 142
3.5.2 Internal Causes 148

4 How to Develop China's International Communication of Broadcast Media? 151
4.1 Strategies at the Macro-level. 151
4.1.1 Reform and Innovation of China's International Broadcast Communication System 151
4.1.2 Reform and Exploration of Collectivization of International Communication 160
4.1.3 Strategies on the Construction of Products Channel of Broadcast and Television Media. 161
4.2 Strategies at the Meso-level 165
4.2.1 Talents Training Plan 165
4.2.2 Media Integration Strategy 168
4.2.3 Brand Strategies 172
4.2.4 Audience-Oriented Strategies 176
4.2.5 Cultural Strategies. 179
4.2.6 Improving International Communication Capacities of Regional Broadcast Media 182
4.3 Strategies at the Micro-level. 185
4.3.1 Setting Agenda 185
4.3.2 Content Is the King: Strategies to Improve Programme Quality 189
4.3.3 Channel Specialisation Strategies 201
4.3.4 Language Strategies 202
4.3.5 Establishing Long-Term Assessment System of International Communication Effects 204

References 205

http://www.springer.com/978-981-10-4459-5

International Communication Strategies of Chinese Radio and TV Networks

Initial Observations

Peng, D.

2017, IX, 209 p. 2 illus., Hardcover
ISBN: 978-981-10-4459-5