

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Research Problems and Purposes	1
1.2	Methodology: Design Science Research (DSR)	3
1.3	Contributions and Publications	7
1.4	Disposition	8
	References	8
2	Knowledge Base	11
2.1	Business Process Management: Exploitative and Explorative Approaches	11
2.1.1	Exploitative BPM: The Methods for Process Improvement and Prioritisation	12
2.1.2	Explorative BPM: A New Direction for Research	13
2.1.3	Six Core Elements of Strategic BPM	14
2.1.4	Ten Principles of Good BPM Practice	15
2.2	Systems Thinking	16
2.2.1	Organisations as Social Systems	17
2.2.2	Organisations as Networks of Commitments	19
2.2.3	Bounded Rationality in Management Decision-Making	20
2.3	Implications of the Knowledge Base for Designing the PCM	22
2.4	Summary and Reflections	22
	References	25
3	The Prioritisation and Categorisation Method—PCM	29
3.1	Process Assessment Heat Map (PAHM)	29
3.2	Process Categorisation Map (CM)	32
3.3	The PCM Way of Working: Activities and the Web-Based Tool	34
	References	36

4	Evaluation of the PCM	37
4.1	The Demonstration of the PCM at Seco Tools	37
4.2	The Pilot Study of the PCM at Ericsson	39
4.3	The Large Scale Evaluation of the PCM at Ericsson	41
	References	43
5	Discussions	45
5.1	The Knowledge Contributions to BPM Research	45
5.2	The Design Principles for the PCM	47
5.3	The Contributions to BPM Practice	51
	References	53
6	Conclusions	55
6.1	The Main Results Revisited	55
6.2	The Research Contributions	55
6.3	Limitations and Future Research	56
	References	58
	Appendix: The Web-Based Tool for the PCM	59

Prioritising Business Processes

Design and Evaluation of the Prioritisation and Categorisation Method (PCM)

Ohlsson, J.; Han, S.

2018, XVII, 66 p. 22 illus., 18 illus. in color., Softcover

ISBN: 978-3-319-70397-8