1	Introduction	1
1.1	Statement of the Problem	1
1.2	Context of the Study	2
1.2.1	Chinese College English Teaching and Its Reform	2
1.2.2	The College English Test	4
1.3	Purpose of the Study	7
1.4	Research Questions	10
1.5	Key Terms	11
1.5.1	First Language (L1) Reading and Second Language (L2) Reading	11
1.5.2	Test Takers' Characteristics	11
1.5.3	Strategic Competence and Metacognitive and Cognitive Strategies	12
1.5.4	Reading Skills and Reading Strategies	13
1.5.5	Second Language Reading Test Performance	14
1.5.6	Exploratory Factor Analysis Versus Confirmatory Factor Analysis	14
1.5.7	Structural Equation Modeling	15
1.5.8	Multi-sample/Multi-group Structural Equation Modeling	15
1.5.9	Cross-Validation	16
1.6	Significance of the Study	16

3	Reading Comprehension and Strategy Use	35
3.1	Research About Reading Comprehension	36
3.2	Relevant Models of Reading Comprehension	38
3.2.1	Multi-component Models	39
3.2.2	Information Processing Models	42
3.2.3	The Simple View of Reading	45
3.2.4	Schema Theory	45
3.2.5	Construction–Integration Model	47
3.2.6	Constructively Responsive Reading Model	48
3.2.7	Relevance to the Study	49
3.3	Theory of Metacognition and Its Application to Reading Comprehension.	51
3.3.1	Definition of Metacognition	51
3.3.2	Methods of Eliciting Strategy Use	53
3.3.3	Empirical Studies on Strategy Use and Reading Test Performance	57
3.4	Studies on Gender Differences in Strategy Use and Reading Test Performance	68
3.5	Relevance to the Study	70

4	Study Procedures and Data Collection	85
4.1	Research Design	85
4.2	Study Participants	86
4.2.1	Participants in Study 1	86
4.2.2	Participants in Study 2	87
4.3	Research Instruments	89
4.3.1	Development and Validation of the ReTSUQ	90
4.3.2	Validation of the Reading Test	98
4.4	Data Collection and Scoring	104
4.4.1	Administration of Research Instruments	104
4.4.2	Data Scoring and Preparation	105
4.5	Statistical Analyses	106
4.5.1	Structural Equation Modeling (SEM)	106
4.5.2	Multi-group Structural Equation Modeling	106
4.5.3	Computer Software Programs Used	107
